

Technology in Analysis and Programming of Information Systems

studies the analysis, development, adaptation, application and programming of computer systems in an organization or community, contributing to the solution of problems in said systems, guaranteeing timely and reliable information.

My expectation from the program is to be able to acquire enough knowledge to be a competent professional.

In addition to this, my expectation of this new learning methodology with virtual education is to manage my time and work on self-learning

Diana Ruiz Galvis

Ficha: 2758274

Evidencia: GA1-240202501-AA1- EV03.

TEACHER

WILLIAM FERNANDO ARIZA COTRINA
SERVICIO NACIONAL DE APRENDIZAJE

ANÁLISIS Y DESARROLLO DE SOFTWARE